

Barncat Consulting provides independent strategy and research to the non-profit and community sectors. Our work includes:

- quantitative and qualitative research, including needs assessments, policy papers and evaluations,
- strategic development for community and non-profit organisations,
- training and facilitation, especially around human rights issues
- funding advice and the drafting of successful funding applications.

We work both in the community development sector in Ireland and on human rights issues at home and abroad. We combine a rigorous academic approach to research with hands-on participatory techniques for true engagement with the stakeholders of the projects on which we work. We try to be as transparent as possible about our work, so you will find details of all our past and current projects here .

We endeavour to keep our news section up-to-date with opinion pieces, community development and human rights news (particularly funding opportunities) and of course, news about Barncat. To receive regular updates, click here to
